Memories...

Placing your obituary notice within the Evening Gazette includes a Book of Remembrance which will be displayed on the Remembrance website.

You need to open the book to allow family and friends, near and far, to leave and read their remembrance messages.

Opening the Book of Remembrance allows you and your friends and family to ...

- Leave a message to remember your loved one
- Light a candle in their honour
- Send a virtual sympathy card
- Read personal tributes left by others
- Print the book as a memorable keepsake.

How to open the Book of Remembrance

You can open your Book of Remembrance by following a few simple steps.

- Visit www.gazettelive.co.uk/remembrance
- Select Books of Remembrance
- Follow the on screen instructions

You will need a unique reference number – if this is not shown below then please contact us on (01642) 252525 or contact your funeral organiser.

Once your book is open you can invite family and friends to read and leave messages and light a candle.

Celebrate a Life

In addition to your Book of Remembrance you also have the unique opportunity to open a Remembrance Album.

This beautiful album allows you to combine photographs and images with your own comments and thoughts accompanied by a musical soundtrack.
