

Your Book of Remembrance

Your Book of Remembrance

www.chroniclelive.co.uk/remembrance or

www.journallive.co.uk/remembrance

From the publishers of the Evening Chronicle and The Journal

ncjMedia
●●●●

Everlasting Memories

The placing of an obituary notice within the Evening Chronicle or The Journal includes a Book of Remembrance which will be displayed on the Remembrance website.

The book can only be viewed once activated by you.

Once you have opened your Book of Remembrance, you, your friends and family can:

- Place a message to remember your loved one
- Light a candle in their honour
- Read personal tributes left by others
- Send a virtual sympathy card
- Print the book as a memorable keepsake

How to open the Book of Remembrance

You can open your Book of Remembrance by following a few simple steps.

Visit www.chroniclelive.co.uk/remembrance or www.journallive.co.uk/remembrance
Select Books of Remembrance and follow the instructions on screen.

You will need a unique reference number – if this is not shown below then please contact us on (0191) 206 7300 or contact your funeral organiser.

Unique reference number

.....
Once your book is open, you can invite family and friends to read and leave messages and light a candle.

A Celebration of Life

As well as your Book of Remembrance, you can also open a Remembrance Album.

A Remembrance Album gives you a unique opportunity to create a truly personal record of your memories of a loved one.

Set to music, the album allows you to combine photographs and images with your own comments and thoughts.

For details visit www.chroniclelive.co.uk/remembrance or
www.journallive.co.uk/remembrance